Designate Beneficiaries

If you do not specifically designate beneficiaries, the legal order of precedence will apply and any amount due will be paid to the person or person(s) highest on the following list living at the time of your death:

1. Your spouse;
2. Your children and their descendants, by representation;
3. Your parents, in equal parts, or if either is dead, the survivor;
4. The legal representative of your estate;
5. Persons entitled under the law of your domicile.

- If you would like to designate only one beneficiary, then simply enter a 100% SHARE.
- If you designate more than one beneficiary:
 - If you would like to list one beneficiary but want to provide an alternative beneficiary then you may list each person with a 100% SHARE. If you do so, we will pay in the order of beneficiaries as you list them on the form. That is, only the first person named will receive unpaid retired pay if that person is alive when you die, but if not, then the second person named receives all of it, and so forth.
 - If you would like to list one beneficiary but want to provide alternative beneficiaries to divide the unpaid retired pay if that first person dies before you, then list the first person with a 100% SHARE. Then list the alternative beneficiaries with the share you wish each to be paid, equaling 100%.
 - If you would like to divide your unpaid retired pay among multiple people, please ensure the percentages, when added together, equal 100%, and we will pay according to percentage listed.
- Street addresses can only contain letters, numbers and the following special characters: / or # or space.
- If you are entering a US, APO, or FPO address, select the US radio button and enter new address information.
